Beyond Expectations

Home Renovations Keep Aging Adults at Home

In 2005, the U.S. Census Bureau reported that 19% of men and 38% of women over the age of 65 lived alone. As more and more of the population live longer and longer, senior citizens and their children have to make some significant decisions. One of the most important is how long can these elder adults continue to live safely in their homes. In order to make sure an older mother or father can remain in their familiar surroundings, perhaps one should consider a home evaluation by Citadel Enterprises' Certified Aging in Place Specialist.

Pete Loy is one of only two area contractors who is a Certified Aging in Place Specialist. His personal assessment consists of a careful evaluation of what the mature homeowner is facing in regards to moving around and functioning within the house. The evaluation will detail how to improve the person's quality of life and his or her independence by making alterations within the dwelling. Once the evaluation is complete and specific improvements agreed upon, then Citadel Enterprises begins working to make the person's home safer and more accessible. Possible projects to consider include installing elevators, ramps, railings and grab bars, bathroom remodels, installing lighting and replacing doors.

Make sure aging adults are living in a house that is conducive to their changing needs. Call Pete Loy today at 884-4303 to schedule your Aging in Place home assessment.
